Many Contributions to College Museum

The Art Gallery and Museum of Murray State College has been of little interest to the students. Today people from all parts of Tennessee, Kentucky, and surrounding states are sending very antique and unique things to be placed in the museum. The following articles are a few of the contributions: rocks of all kinds, wooden duck, eagle (Lynn Grove, Ky.), cap and ball rifle, bullets (used in Civil War), bullet molds, Indian War clubs, canteens, snake hide (6 yards long), magazine for the blind, (March, 1910), swords, rifles, and pistols.

There were numerous other things which were of interest. Many articles came from Fort Henry, and also the Tennessee River. The rifles and pistols used in the Civil War show they were very old because parts of them are gone. The swords which were also used are very interesting.

The museum is located on the

A Plea For the Rural Carrier

People on rural routes should give a thought to their rural route carriers. Winter will soon be on and every mail box should be fixed up so the carriers can deliver their mail with the least exposure possible to the weather. Approach to the boxes should be fixed so they can drive up to the boxes without crossing ditches, getting mired in the mud and losing a lot of time and patience at the boxes. People should appreciate the task of these boys and do what they can to make their work as easy as possible and not subject them to the difficulties resulting from boxes half off the posts, or on the ground and such small matters that a few minutes time would correct.—Union City Messenger.

Red Cross Hopes To Limit Its Appeals
Through Strong Reserve From Enrollment

Hope that in the coming year the scope of appeals for disaster relief can be limited was expressed today by M. D. Holton who said that through the anticipated growth of Red Cross strength from increased membership this fall, this result may be achieved.

Formerly, he recalled, the people of a community were accustomed to receive numerous appeals for disaster relief contributions, whenever some calamity struck in their territory requiring material relief.

The average community it has been figured, receives now not more than one or two such appeals each year. As membership increases the funds available for emergencies also increase. Such a reserve, it was explained, a community asset.

During the past year the National Red Cross served in fifty-one disasters in addition to its huge Drought Relief operation.

Yet no national appeal for funds was made except for Drought Relief. The National portion of Roll Call receipts—fifty cents from each membership—enables the Red Cross to carry this service.

Mr. Holton explained that local membership in the Red Cross in each community means a strong national organization which can respond immediately to any unusual emergency beyond the help of local forces, and can raise funds from outside sources if necessary to supplement those available locally.

The period of the Roll Call is from Armistice to Thanksgiving Day, and the goal of the Murray Chapter is 1000 members.

The drainage enabled E. P. Trammel, a McCreary county farmer, to grow 50 bushels of corn to the acre on land that had produced little before it was drained.

FRESH
in nature's way
CAMELS are never parched or toasted!

FRESHNESS and flavor in a cigarette trace right back to natural moisture.

If you overheat or process tobacco so harshly as to dry out all natural moisture you drive out freshness and flavor too.

Camel never parches or toasts the fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos it uses—they are naturally smooth, cool, mellow, with natural moisture retained.

That's why the Camel Humidor Pack proves such a blessing to Camel smokers—it brings them a fine cigarette fresh to start with, and fresh to smoke.

If you don't realize what natural moisture means in genuine freshness and flavor, switch to Camels and see.

Try this mild, slow-burning, throat-friendly favorite for just one day—then leave it, if you can!

Don't remove the moisture-proof wrapping from your package of Camels after you open it. The Camel Humidor Pack is protection against sweat, dust and germs. In offices and homes, even in the dry atmosphere of artificial heat, the Camel Humidor Pack delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until the last one has been smoked.

Charity Football

Almost every football team in the country is playing one or more charity games this fall. It is a fine and commendable thing for the gridiron heroes of this country to contribute their bit toward easing the sufferings from unemployment.

Football fans of Kentucky are much disappointed over the failure of the University of Kentucky to agree to play her old rival, Centre College, in a charity game that would undoubtedly bring a greater "rate" than another contest that could possibly be arranged.

We wonder if the University would not agree to a game between her Freshman eleven and the Yearlings of Murray State College. Football records to date this season indicate for a certainty that the Murray freshmen have one of the outstanding line fresh teams of Kentucky if not of the south.

Such a game played on a neutral Western Kentucky field, say Paducah or Mayfield, or even Owensboro, would attract a record crowd.

Another advantage of these charity games is that they can be played between teams of players like those and better many an argument as to which is the best.

And such contests always increase the rate.

A High-type Road

Despite some expectations to the contrary, Calloway and Graves counties are getting a high type of surface on the Mayfield and Murray highway. This road, which is expected to be completed by the latter part of next week, is much better than what we commonly call "black top" as the state highway commission promised that it would be.

The principal ingredients in this surface are washed gravel and tar. On the Mayfield end of the road, limestone rock is being used with Tar. The gravel is being used extensively in Calloway county.

What! HAIR OINTMENT IN YOUR MOTOR OIL?

Petroleum jelly forms the base for many hair ointments—and many motor troubles. This heavy, jelly-like salve gives motor oil a false body which turns water-thin in engine heat. Ask the nearest Sinclair dealer for Sinclair Opaline—the motor oil which has had petroleum jelly removed at as low as 60° F. below zero—a temperature much lower than required for just removing wax. ## Red Cross Ends Year With Marked Success

Of all the disaster relief programs in its history—now totaling more than 1,100 in the United States—the American Red Cross handled the greatest during the last year. That was the drought which, in the area affected and numbers of individuals helped, eclipsed any other calamity in this country in recent years. The prolonged drought spread over more than 1,000 counties in 23 states, leaving 614,000 families, estimated at 2,750,000 persons, dependent upon the Red Cross for aid during some period of the emergency. That figure more than quadruples the total number requiring assistance during the Mississippi Valley flood of 1927, which up to that time was the relief agency's biggest assignment of its kind.

In spite of the intensity of the drought, the Red Cross handled 41 other disasters, occurring in about two-thirds of the states during the same period. Help to veterans and service men continued; the First Aid and Life-Saving service showed marked progress; the society's Nursing, Nutrition and Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick services kept up their forward pace; the accomplishments of the Regular and Foreign service were numerous, and all other phases of the organization's program functioned with remarkable smoothness.

In Kentucky, which gave promise of making a comparatively early recovery from the drought's effects, the Red Cross administered relief to 15,508 families during the emergency, aside from issuing regular food orders to all those helped, donated supplies by the carload were shipped into Kentucky from other sections.

Supplementing the general feeding program was the distribution of packages of Sprague's seed to 5,525 families. The packages contained from 14 to 18 varieties of vegetables and were selected with the cooperation of various state and federal agricultural extension agencies. This seed program resulted in bumper vegetable yields in some of the most acutely affected sections, thereby allowing many of the Red Cross beneficiaries to return to a self-sustaining basis at a much earlier date than otherwise would have been possible.

In the Fall of 1930 packages and garden seed was distributed in several drought states, however, the Spring seed distribution was handled on a much larger scale, due to the enormous increase in the requirements between those seasons.

Beneficiaries received their supplies by means of distribution orders, made payable to the society where the beneficiaries ordinarily traded. In that way the normal channels of trade were undisturbed. Many stores, especially in the smaller communities, closed almost solely on Red Cross business during the most trying days of the emergency. Drought victims exchanged their food orders for supplies and their merchants, in turn, forwarded the orders to the Red Cross for prompt payment.

Six hundred and twelve carloads of donated foodstuffs were sent into the drought area, by residents or manufacturers of other states, but these supplies were so distributed that trading at the local stores was not noticeably interrupted. Evidence of the thoroughness of the entire feeding program is shown in the fact that the Red Cross provided the beneficiaries with balanced diets. Even the donated supplies, for the most part, were assembled in warehouses by the carloads, then were divided in a manner that when the cars reached the beneficiaries they contained the most healthful assortments of foodstuffs possible.

In hundreds of rural schools of the drought area lunches, made possible by Red Cross funds, were served regularly to the pupils. In most communities where this project was carried out serving generally was done by school patrons, home economics classes or Junior Red Cross members. In some communities the home demonstration agents supervised the work. Faculty members cooperated throughout the drought area. Increased attendance marks and better weights and mental attitudes among the children were the results. Numerous other kinds of Red Cross relief were given. They included layettes for the expectant mothers, warm clothing to thousands, feed for many family milk cows and powdered yeast to combat the spread of pellagra.

There was only one method feasible when the plight of the sufferers lessened, and that was withdrawal on a county by county basis. No arbitrary date for halting relief could be set because climate and other conditions varied so greatly in the drought area. Therefore, relief was reduced just as rapidly as those receiving it were able to shift for themselves. As soon as that date arrived, Red Cross responsibility to these persons ended. Thus, self-reliance and independence of the drought sufferers were preserved.

Barkley Proposed for President By Glenn

Mayfield, Ky., Oct. 28.—A "Barkley-for-President" drive was launched in Lowes, northwest of here, this afternoon as 300 men, women and schoolchildren gathered at the Lowes High School to hear Moses R. Glenn, Dawson Springs, First District Railroad Commissioner, speak in behalf of the Democratic State ticket.

The voters, many of whom knew United States Senator Albert W. Barkley as a youth, near Lowes, cheered as the Dawson Springs speaker lauded the native Graves County. Glenn asked Graves County to seek Barkley's nomination as Democratic standard-bearer in the 1932 Presidential race. Barkley was born and reared between the present Lowes town site and Fancy Farm.

"This favorite son deserves your support, so let's get Kentucky Democrats to instruct for him in 1932," Glenn said. The Railroad Commissioner said he would make the same proposal to Wingo, Symsonia and Fancy Farm communities tonight and tomorrow.

Dinner --
Call 12 for
Tender Juicy Meats

Housewives are complimenting the tenderness of our meats and the fact that when they order tender meat we send that and none other.
